World CML Day 2021

20 years of life-changing CML therapies, but worldwide access is still needed

Every 22nd September, chronic myeloid leukemia patients across the globe unite on World CML Day 9/22.
This year marks the 20th anniversary of the approval of the first targeted therapy in CML that made a life-changing prognosis for many CML patients.

However, there is still a serious lack of access to standard treatments and monitoring tools for CML patients in many countries over the world.

Access to basic medicines and diagnostic, treatment according to expert recommendations, accurate monitoring tools, effective side effects management, and right information for patients and carers remain as huge challenges for many CML patients worldwide.
